

Call for Applicants

Graduate Institute in Philosophy of Education

June 13-24, 2016

Application Deadline March 25, 2016

Sponsored by the Center for Ethics and Education, University of Wisconsin-Madison

The Graduate Institute in Philosophy of Education aims to support and cultivate new scholars with knowledge and skills for future philosophical engagement with education. The institute will focus the themes of justice and higher education and the democratic aims of education.

Program Details

- 10-day intensive summer course in Chicago, June 13-24, 2016
- Two workshops in 2017: 1) American Philosophical Association's Central Division conference (March 1-March 4 in Kansas City) 2) American Educational Research Association (April 27 -May 1 in San Antonio)
- Participants will be supported in developing a new paper in, or related to, philosophy of education.
- Students admitted into the program will have all travel, accommodations and most meals paid for at all events.

Applicants for the program should be graduate students from schools of education or philosophy departments interested in pursuing questions of policy and practice in education.

For more details visit the CEE website at ethicsandeducation.wceruw.org/grad-programming.html

or contact Paula McAvoy at pjmcavoy@wisc.edu

Institute Instructors

Harry Brighthouse
UW- Madison

Paula McAvoy
UW-Madison

Tony Laden
University of Illinois-Chicago

Visiting Scholars

Michele Moses
(UC Boulder) and
Daniel Weinstock
(McGill)

THE CENTER FOR ETHICS & EDUCATION

Wisconsin Center for Education Research
SCHOOL OF EDUCATION
UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON