

Authority and Autonomy in Sex Education

Tuesday, March 6, 2018 • 12:00–1:15 pm
Educational Sciences Room 259 • 1025 W. Johnson St.

During this interactive session, panelists will offer historical, contemporary, and philosophic perspectives on the central question: Should sex education be student-centered? Drawing upon examples of peer education, GSA clubs (original name: Gay-Straight Alliance), and teacher centered approaches, the panel will highlight tensions between adult authority over the curriculum and promoting the development of student autonomy.
